

Cedars are evergreen trees that belong to the pine family.

There are 4 types of cedar trees.

Cedar branches can be used for rope and twine.

Cedar bark can be used for building plankhouses, canoes, boxes, and baskets.

Cedar trees can grow to more than 100 feet tall!

Cedar trees smell very good.

CEDAR

Oak trees evergreen trees and are part of the beech tree family.

There are 450 types of oak trees.

Oak wood is very hard and is used to make a lot of furniture.

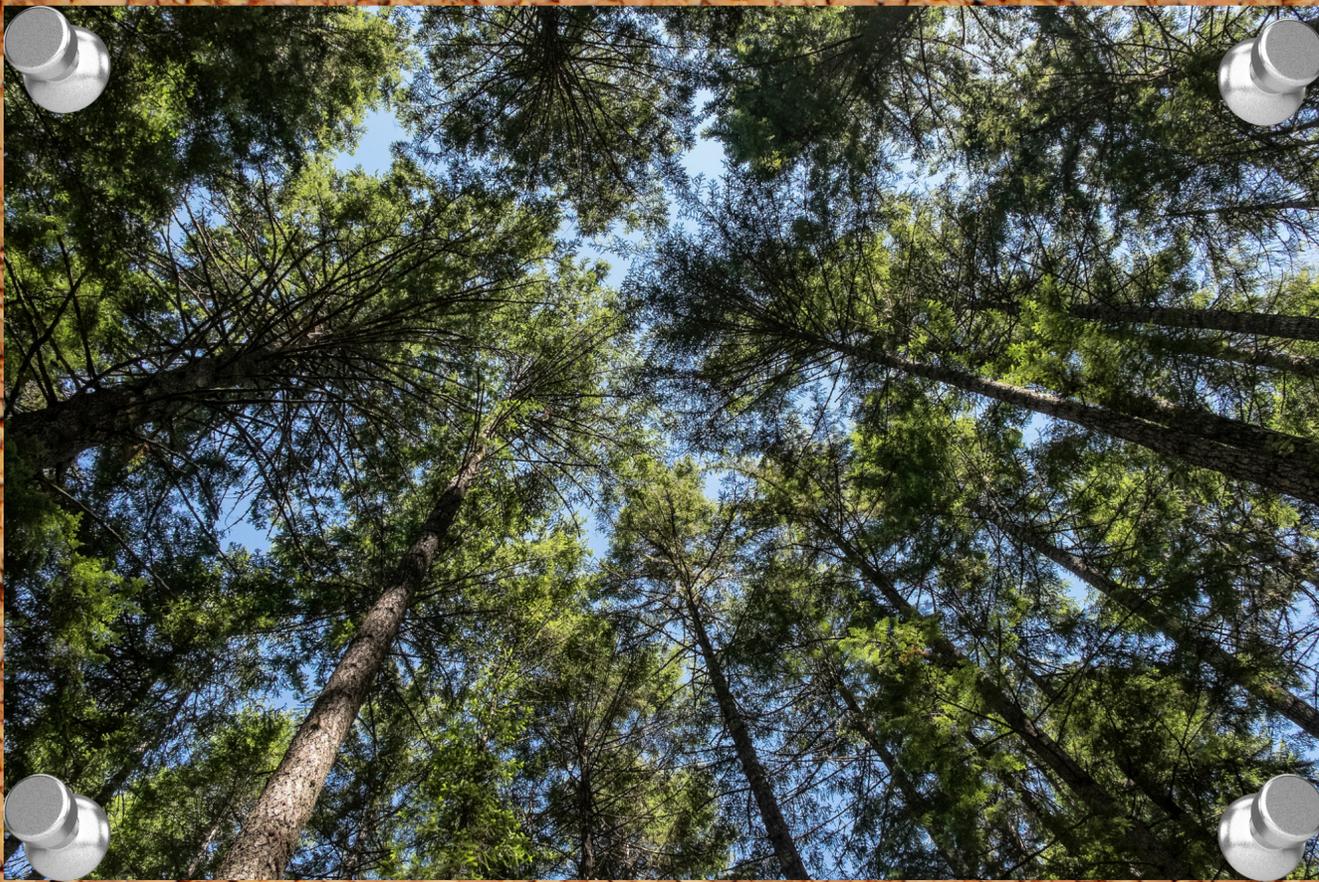

Acorns come from oak trees and can be eaten by many animals and humans.

Some oak trees grow up to 100 feet tall.

Oak trees can live up to 1,000 years!

OAK

Douglas fir trees are evergreen trees in the pine family.

Douglas fir trees are very popular Christmas trees.

Douglas fir trees can be 70-330 feet tall!

Fir bark can be used for building houses and other buildings - and even for flooring.

Douglas-fir pine leaves can be used to make pine-needle tea.

DOUGLAS FIR